

Establish laboratory portal and RealMe® account (for all lab users)

This quick reference guide takes you through the steps to create a user account in the Laboratory Portal part of Hinekōrako, the Taumata Arowai regulatory and intelligence system. To access your Hinekōrako account you'll need a RealMe® account. If you don't have one, you'll be able to create one during this process. Each time you log into Hinekōrako you will log in with your RealMe® account.

It does not matter if your RealMe® account is not a work account. Your RealMe® account is only tied to your Hinekōrako account for the purposes of making sure it really is you who is logging in. You can do that with a personal RealMe® account. You do not need to create a separate RealMe® account for this purpose if you already have one.

Note: RealMe® is a registered trademark.

Where to start

This process assumes you have received an email with an invitation link to create an account. That email could have been sent to you by Taumata Arowai or by an administrator of the laboratory you work at.

Step	What to do
1	Click on the link in the email.

Welcome to Hinekōrako

Hinekōrako is the self-service web portal for drinking water suppliers and laboratories, and the regulatory and intelligence platform for Taumata Arowai. It will be the primary channel for registration and management of drinking water supplies - allowing suppliers and laboratories to share information with Taumata Arowai.

Laboratories share information by notifying Taumata Arowai when the test of a drinking water supply sample indicates that Minimum Acceptable Values have been exceeded. The notifications submitted by your laboratory will be listed below. From here you will be able to locate and view a past notification or create a new one.

Taumata Arowai will commence as the regulator on 15 November. Until then you should continue to notify the relevant Public Health Unit.
